

The FCC was set up to safeguard the public and to ensure that we were not monopolized by special interest media either from the left or the right. The right owns the media now but that could shift. Many people feel that the media has lost interest in being informative or fair. One no longer sees the kind of special programming that informed people and made them better citizens. The media is essentially only profit driven and highly commercial and news divisions are left to scramble. Further erosion will result in an uninformed populace and possibly an unruly one.

Open the airwaves again- they belong to the American people and should not be just beacons of profit and propaganda.
